Introducing the MAP team

Posted on 30 August 2011

Hi everyone

Our blog officially launched yesterday with contributions from Richard Aedy and Michael Stutchbury.

We thought we would introduce ourselves, so you have a better idea of who you're interacting with. On our blog, you may read posts and comments from various members of the MAP team - me (Serhat), Madeleine, Imogen, Michael and Helen.

We're really looking forward to hearing from you about your goals and aspirations for Australia's progress.

We will be posting regularly for the coming month, and we will have posts from other prominent Australians in the coming weeks as well.

Serhat

Oh, that eword you've been using which makes a thing of all outside us! It sounds like a mental disorder, the ment the vir (L..Men) is in. I recommend the old Greek thought of the ecos or household; which includes all things and living systems and which we have to understand we are all in together. It also includes economics but that's another distraction....abstract idea instead of living system.

Cheers

When I was born there were 2,56 Billion people. Now there are 6.79 Billion with an exponential growth rate of 1.14%. This implies a doubling time of 63 years.

There will be 3.6 times as many people a century after my birth.

We discovered oil and convert 10 units of oil energy into 1 unit of food energy.

The oil is feeding us, driving this growth.

The oil is going away.

Progress is when we get this ratio down.
